Miss Sargent's Message

And here we are, the end of Autumn Term 1. The last seven weeks have seemed to fly by but we have fitted so much in already.

This week, Year 5 had a Battle of Britain day. It was great to see everyone come in in costume and experience a range of activities linking to this topic. At one point I had two children arrive at my office door dressed in a flying jacket, goggles and wearing a parachute! This immersive style of learning is a fantastic way for children to remember facts and knowledge about different areas of the curriculum.

Year 3 went on a trip to King Edward Mine. Again, this was a great opportunity for the children to see first hand what life was like for a miner. Following these visits, the children often produce some really detailed pieces of work that we love to display and share.

The weather this week hasn't been great. The decision was made on Thursday that we wouldn't go ahead with Freedom Friday lunchtime today due to the weather forecast. However, as always happens, the weather didn't do as we expected and the rain mainly stayed away. The plan is that we will trial another Friday of the exciting new set up after half term and then launch it full time the week after. I would like to thank Mr Woodmason and Miss Greenwood for all of their hard work in organising and setting up the new look lunchtimes. I know they have a few more ideas up their sleeve that they will reveal over time.

Today, our football team are playing a tournament and the news I received at lunchtime is that they are playing exceptionally well. 5 matches down and 3 to go.

I would just like to remind you that Monday 6th November is an INSET day.

I hope you all have a fantastic half-term break and we will see you when we return.
